The river still continues to fall and will soon be at its normal stage.

THE HERALD is requested to say there will be no meeting of the Masonic lodge tonight.

Judge Stanley Welch still continues to improve and will probably be able to open court tomorrow.

A box of young eagles was shipped to the New York zoological society by Frank Armstrong by express.

There is a very bad place at the foot of 13th street, next to the river, to which the attention of the city authorities is called.

Jim Young, who has been here some time working at the carpenter's trade, left this morning for Corpus Christi, where he thinks the chances for work in his line are more plentiful.

The Fordyce train arrived this morning for the first time since last Wednesday. The track is reported in very good shape, although a little soft in some places. A few dry days will place everything in condition again.

Miss Ellen Scott, of Refugio, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Whitney Troups for the past few days, was an outgoing passenger this morning. She was accompanied by Walter Troups, who has also been visiting his brother and family.

Mr. Chas. H. Flato, informs us that lumber is now on the ground for the Sarita Lumber Co's sheds at Sarita and preparations are being made for the construction of the necessary building and sheds, also that Mr. Kenedy is building a large store building at that place. —Kingsville Times.

The Rio Grande Valley Bank of Samfordyce, will open its doors for business in about a week, with E. A. Peffley as cashier. As it will be the only bank between Brownsville and Laredo, the new concern should be a paying institution. Mr. Peffley is a successful business man, and THE HERALD wishes him well in the new enterprise.

Whitney Troups returned last night from a weeks visit to his old home at Refugio. Mr. Troups says everything is getting along nicely in that section, stock are fat and range in fine condition. Owing to too much rain farming operations have been very much hindered, in some instances farmers planting corn a third time and still made no corn. The railroad force has reached the other side of Mission river with the bridge, so Mr. Troups says, and have about fifty more bents to put in.

Lieut. Floyd Frisbie, of whose record as an American soldier Corpus Christi is proud, has been in the U. S. General Hospital at Fort Bayard, N. M., for two months and has now failed of reappointment to command a detachment of Macabebe scouts in the Philippines because he has been attacked by consumption. The doctors hold out great hope that he will entirely regain his health—Corpus Crony.

Lieut. Frisbie was at one time employed as stenographer in the office of Judge Wells in this city, and will be remembered by nearly all of our people. This was before he attained renown as a soldier. His friends are sorry to hear he has failed of reappointment on account of ill health, but glad to know physicians give great hope that his health may be regained.

Probably Lynched in Mississippi.

Regarding the probable lynching of Dionisio Esparza in Mississippi, mention of which was made in THE HERALD yesterday, the information being contained in a letter to the young man's father from Pedro Longoria, announcing Esparza's disappearance from jail, the following telegram to Sheriff Celedonio Garza, in answer to one inquiring concerning the fate of Dionisio Esparza, seems to leave very little doubt that the young man has been the victim of mob violence. The telegram follows:

Indianola, Miss., July 11, 1905. Sheriff Celedonio Garza.

A Mexican was taken from calaboose in town of Drew, this county, and lynched June 30, charged with seduction. Only eight or ten men composed the mob. He was taken at night while the officers were out of town. No arrests yet made. I think you have the name correct. No lynching at Barksdale.

A. E. ANDERSON, Sheriff. Dionisio Esparza was well thought of here where he was raised, and was known as a quiet, unassuming young fellow, and his relatives and friends still hope there is some mistake, though the message quoted above leaves very little grounds for hope.

Mrs. Cecilia Diamond Dead.

The sad news was received this morning by Chas. Diamond of the death of his mother, Mrs. Cecilia Diamond, at the family home in Brooklyn last night at 10 o'clock. The first telegram came announcing the serious illness of the lady, and while the son was writing an answer saying he would leave in the morning for the bedside of his mother, a second message came, announcing her death. The lady was the wife of M. Diamond, who was well known here and died in this city a few months ago. Mrs. Diamond visited here several years ago, and will be remembered by many of our people. She leaves two daughters and three sons, one of the latter, Charles, now being in business in Brownsville. To the young man here, and other relatives and friends THE HERALD extends its most sincere sympathy in this hour of affliction.

Died Suddenly.

Yesterday evening at Galveston ranch Gil Salinas, died suddenly, aged 88 years. He was an old resident of Cameron county, and was one of the colony of Don Diego Garcia, of Victoria, Texas. Although with his eyesight somewhat impaired he could, up to the time of his death, ride horse back twenty-five or thirty miles a day.

J. M. White, who has been manager of Hancock's furniture store here for some months, has given up the position and returned to San Antonio, his old home, this morning. His family will join him there within the next few days. Mr. White and family have made many friends during their stay in Brownsville, all of whom regret very much to have them leave the city.

Just as we go to press we learn of the death of S. J. Zander, a son-in-law of Mrs. A. S. Wolff, which occurred at Brooklyn today. A more extended notice will appear in tomorrow's HERALD.

The Boy's View Of It.

"I had a young friend," said Mrs. Kate Upson Clark of Brooklyn, "who was taken to the circus by his father, while his little sister Lucy was left at home, says the Philadelphia Ledger. On departure two toy balloons were purchased, one for him and one for sister Lucy. The father was carrying them above the heads of the crowd, floating at the ends of their long strings, when one of them exploded. The boy looked up with an agonized expression. Then a look of peace stole over his countenance and he remarked: 'It's too bad Lucy's balloon's spoiled, isn't it?'"

Mamma (to the three-year-old) —Lola, dear, I want you to hurry right over to the store for me.

Lola—But I can't hurry, mamma; my feet are all baldheaded and I'll have to put on my shoes first. —Chicago News.

One who does not trust or believe in others may also quite naturally become unworthy of such faith. It is well to have faith where one feels that the object is worthy, even though it brings sadness and shattered hope—for the sake of yourself, that you may deserve and retain the respect and affection of those who trust and believe in you. —Yokum Times.

ABOLISHING FREE ZONE

Has Very Stimulating Effect on Prices on Mexican Frontier—An Unreasonable Advance.

A dispatch from El Paso to the Galveston News, speaking of the effect of the free zone on prices, says, under date of July 7:

Yesterday in C. P. Diaz an American called for a glass of beer. As the beer was passed over the counter he was informed that it would cost him a quarter. In utter indignation the customer dashed beer and glass into the face of the bar-keeper. The police was on hand promptly and now an American languishes in a foreign jail because he did not know that the free zone had been abolished and along with it cheap beer. Beer and other American liquors were much cheaper in C. P. Diaz than in the United States, since the exporter got a rebate of the internal revenue tax. A schooner could go there for the price of a pony.

Prices generally have gone up unreasonably and in some cases without reason. One dollar and fifty cents is now charged for country butter that was selling at 75c, though presumably the cows do not charge any more for their milk.

It is said that several of the leading merchants of C. P. Diaz are preparing to move their stocks into the interior of Mexico, where they can easily undersell competitors, as their goods go in duty free. A prominent broker whose wide knowledge of the trade enables him to judge estimates that the provisions of the decree whereby stocks on hand and orders already made are given free entry into the interior is equivalent to a present of one million dollars to merchants within the former free zone. A well-known firm of C. P. Diaz that has stores also in Presidio and in El Paso has out an order on which it is said the duty would be $150,000.

Seeing the immense pecuniary benefit that could have been derived from a foreknowledge of the decree it is somewhat remarkable that as far as ascertainable there was no leakage. Should this be true it is very creditable to the printing department of the Government, where the important order, in circular form, was struck off presumably a month ago. Some poor typographer down there was holding on to information that could have been sold for a fortune.

A good idea of the extent to which red tape is carried by the British army is given by the following paragraph from recent station orders at Aden: "Stationery 589. The G. O. C. sanctioned the purchase locally of a bottle of red ink under the financial powers granted to him in A. R. I. (Army Regulations, India.) volume III paragraph 6 (ii) and 7 (ii)."

A Paris restaurant proprietor had a Danish boar-hound which he had trained to steal joints of meat from butchers' shops and bring them to him.
